Day 3: Talk To Me Goose

Recap:

As Wisconsin Wing Summer Encampment moves into the middle of the week, the bonds of lifetime friendship are starting to take hold. Even more exploration happened today as flights got to participate in some very exciting activities. Some cadets who were nervous at the beginning of the week are now beginning to make long strides as key team members. It's hard to believe how the middle of the week is already almost upon us, but we're here now!

Wisconsin Basic School:

Today, Wisconsin Basic School constructed bottle rockets as teams and competed against each other to see who can launch their rocket the highest. Echo Flight ended up winning the competition with the highest soaring bottle rocket. Squadron 1 also spent the day at the Security Forces High-Risk Entry Facility learning about the various operations Security Forces handles on a daily basis

Cadet Development Course:

One of the objectives of the Cadet Development Course is to provide the opportunity to earn the NRA Badge to each student participating. Today, students took a field trip to LaCrosse to engage in a firearms safety course to further increase their knowledge on how to safely handle a firearm.

Wisconsin Cadet Academy:

Distinct leaders in the class are starting to make themselves known as the first honor cadets are being announced. Congratulations to Second Lieutenant Martens on earning the first Honor Cadet of the academy. Project work is fully underway as students prepare to present alongside the Cadet Development Course this Friday.
