Day 5: It's Time to Turn and Burn!

Recap:

We're coming down to the final stretch! Today is the final day of exploration for Wisconsin Wing Summer Encampment. Flights are beginning to perform and cooperate as cohesive teams, students are gaining a sense of confidence that they never knew was there before coming to encampment, and they are prepared to leave Volk Field with the knowledge they've gained. Graduation is right around the corner, Keep plugging away.

Wisconsin Basic School:

A very special guest came in to speak with Wisconsin Basic School today! Brig. General May gave a speech to motivate the students to finish this week strong and to always continue dreaming. Additionally, this is the first year that Wisconsin Wing has ever been allowed to tour the Volk Field armory. With graduation right around the corner, parade practice was also conducted to make sure Saturday's parade runs smoothly.

Cadet Development Course:

Today, Cadet Development Course Students practiced advanced drill in preparation to serve as color guard for Saturday's graduation. Brig. General May also stopped by to visit with cadets and give them some encouragement. His advice stands true, "always try something new."

Wisconsin Cadet Academy:

Wisconsin Cadet Academy had an action-packed day planned! Candidates got the opportunity to go rappelling at University of Wisconsin La Crosse and they even got to sit in on a special servant leadership conference. Today will serve as a keystone day for candidates to mold their leadership styles into how they lead others once they leave Volk Field.
