As the day marches on, so does WBS. After morning PT was completed, the WBS flights marched back to their barracks to change into ABUs for the day then marched again to the DFAC for breakfast. After chow, some cadets went to their orientation flights while other cadets prepared to go onto the flight line. While on the flight line, cadets received tours of a KC-135, a HH-60 Blackhawk, and an F-35 aircraft. At the same time, cadets also got a to tour the base fire station. They learned about how to fight fires and take initiative when it comes to emergencies. After lunch, cadets received additional training on military airpower and cybersecurity.
