Day 0

Student Arrival

Students arrived at 0900, and were efficiently processed through all the needed stations by the line cadre.

With departments like Administration for check in, Logistics for material supply, Public Affairs for portraits, and Health and Safety for medical, today was a labor intensive day for support staff and cadre.

Once students, both Wisconsin Basic School (WBS) and Wisconsin Cadet Academy (WCA), had finished processing, they were escorted to their barracks to unpack until the Honor Agreement.

Highlight Of The Day: Honor Agreement

Encampment fully commences only when each cadet signs the Honor Agreement. This session is a prelude to the overall encampment program. It communicates the overall vision for the encampment program, previews some of the exciting activities, and establishes the norms of behavior by presenting them as challenges to be accepted. The Honor Agreement is an invitation, and as such this exercise teaches that attitude and effort are important keys to success.

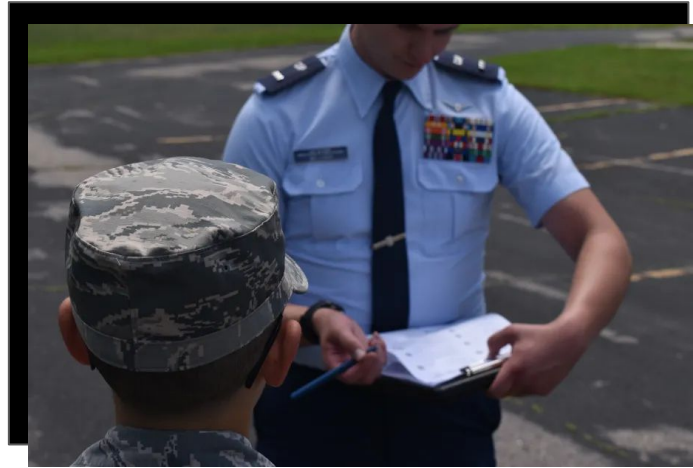

Encampment Media

There's only so much we can fit into one newsletter, try as we might, so the photos you may be looking out for might not make it into a newsletter. Despite this, you can be assured that the Public Affairs team will capture that picture you are looking for of your cadet. Scan this QR code for the links to all our social media!

Initial Assessments

Flight staff performed a series of tests assessing their student's knowledge and skill in the fundamentals of cadet life at the beginning of encampment and again just prior to graduation. This helps to determine each individual cadet's level of growth and is a useful tool to track their growth from where they started to where they'll be at by the end of encampment.

At successful encampments, such as Wisconsin Wing Encampment, leaders should expect that cadets will learn and grow as a result of the encampment experience. Initial assessments help cadets learn because it enables the flight staff to get a sense of "where each cadet is at" upon arrival at encampment and to make informed choices about what material they should emphasize during flight commander's time, drill and ceremonies, and general training.
